About Ken Seeley Communities

Ken Seeley Communities believes in the achievable goal of life long sobriety. Addiction is a chronic, progressive disease, and even with a one-year treatment program, relapse, jail and even untimely death are still possible. They have created a protocol for long-term sobriety that emphasizes greater accountability on the individual, his/her family and the external support system. By shifting the focus from 30 days to long-term, they provide goals that reach into the future and create a continuing care plan to support life-long sobriety and recovery.
